3D Configurator quickly generates an estimated cost for BLADE, BOOST, and THREE60, along with images to visualize finishes, configurations, and additional options.

The fast, all-in-one configurator and estimation tool makes rough pricing easy

Clear Design announced on May 23 the addition of a groundbreaking product configurator to its website. This new tool will allow users to easily customize workstations and conference tables to see different sizes, finishes, configurations, and accessories like dividers and storage pedestals. Multiple combinations of workstations can be created and added to quickly build an estimate for an entire office. Users can download a PDF of their estimate to forward to the Clear Design team for a detailed quote for their projects.

“The configurator will provide our reps and dealer partners with a fast and easy-to-use resource for visualizing Clear Design product customization and getting quick estimates for their custom configurations and quantities,” says Founding Partner Luke Warrilow. “The addition of the configurator further speaks to Clear Design’s service-minded business model and continuous pursuit of ways to make our user experience easy and efficient for our partners.”

Clear Design is known for its stellar customer service team, robust FAST Program with hundreds of items that ship in 5 days, and industry-leading warranty. This new resource will provide further value by quickly generating an estimated cost for BLADE, BOOST, and THREE60, along with images to help visualize finishes, configurations, and additional options.
