Clear Design Introduces COVE Pods

Texas-based, family-owned office furniture manufacturer Clear Design has launched COVE, a line of meeting and focus pods. COVE creates flexible workspaces without complicated construction and provides semi-private spaces for meetings, breakout sessions or focused work. The pods come in a variety of configurations, from a single-person focus pod to an open, railway-carriage design for four.

“These meeting pods are a great solution to create modular private work, meeting and collaboration spaces,” said Luke Warrilow, Clear Design director. “The pods are easy to assemble, and you can set them throughout your office to give your teams a comfortable place to work, huddle and even recharge. Having products like these available on a three-day lead time is another example of how Clear Design is raising the bar in the industry.”

COVE features include space-saving design, plush foam seating, integrated lighting and acoustic, sound-absorbing design. It is the latest addition to Clear Design’s Fast Program, which offers office furniture, storage and accessories that ship in three days.
